■ WHERE YOU STAND TODAY

Bluebonnet Plumbing has solid fundamentals — a verified profile, real reviews, and a clean brand — but the online presence is coasting, not competing. A slow mobile site, an under-built Google profile, and thin local content are quietly handing ready-to-book calls to faster-moving competitors. The good news: every one of these is fixable, and the gains tend to show up fast.

■ TOP SHELF SCORECARD

Our assessment of each part of your online presence, graded A–F and backed by the specific findings below.

DIMENSION	GRADE	ASSESSMENT
Google Profile  62	C	Verified and claimed, but under-built — empty services, thin categories, only 8 photos, and no posts in months make the listing look inactive.
Reviews / Reputation  55	C-	3.9 from 41 reviews with several unanswered 1–2 , and no system to ask happy customers — volume and rating both trail local competitors.
Website quality  60	C	Trustworthy branding, but a dated, slow mobile experience (largest content loads ~4.6s) and no tap-to-call above the fold.
Local / niche SEO  48	D+	Sits on page 2–3 for core 'plumber Frisco' terms — thin content, no dedicated service or city pages, and no schema markup.

■ GOOGLE BUSINESS PROFILE AUDIT

Your Google Business Profile is the single biggest driver of phone calls for a local plumber — it's what shows up in the Map Pack when someone searches 'plumber near me' or 'water heater repair Frisco.' Below is an element-by-element look at how your profile is performing today, and exactly where it's leaving calls on the table.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Business info & hours	A ⁻	 90	Name, address, phone, and hours are accurate and consistent — a strong, trustworthy foundation to build on.
Categories & services	D	 45	Only the primary 'Plumber' category is set and the Services list is empty, so you're invisible for drain, water-heater, and repipe searches.
Photos & media	D ⁺	 48	8 photos total and none in the last five months. Active profiles carry 40+ recent photos and earn more calls and direction requests.
Google Posts	F	 22	No Posts published. Competitors post weekly offers and job updates that keep them fresh in the feed and the Map Pack.
Reviews & responses	C ⁻	 55	3.9 from 41 reviews, and several negative reviews have no owner response — which reads as inattentive to a prospect.
Questions & answers	D	 40	Multiple customer questions sit unanswered and there are no owner-seeded FAQs to guide the on-the-fence caller.
Map-Pack visibility	C	 58	Shows in the 3-pack for a few outlying terms but drops off for the high-value 'plumber Frisco' searches that drive the most calls.

Detailed findings

Empty categories are costing you whole service lines

Google only shows your profile for services it knows you offer. With just the primary 'Plumber' category set and the Services section blank, Bluebonnet effectively disappears for 'drain cleaning,' 'water heater replacement,' 'slab leak,' and 'repipe' — all high-intent, high-ticket searches. Filling in the right secondary categories and writing out a complete Services list is one of the fastest ways to appear in more searches without spending a dollar on advertising.

An inactive-looking profile loses the tap

When two plumbers sit side by side in the Map Pack, the one with fresh photos, weekly Posts, and answered questions wins the tap — it simply looks more alive and more trustworthy. Bluebonnet's most recent photo is five months old, there are zero Posts, and customer questions sit unanswered. To a searcher deciding who to call in about ten seconds, that gap is often decisive.

Unanswered reviews quietly repel prospects

4.1 reviews is a genuine foundation, but a 3.9 average with visible, unanswered 1–2 reviews does more damage than the number alone suggests. Prospects read an owner's responses as a preview of how they'll be treated. A short, professional reply to every review — paired with a simple system that asks happy customers for new ones — is the single highest-leverage reputation move available to you.

Quick wins for your profile

- Add drain cleaning, water-heater, and repipe as services + secondary categories this week
- Upload 15–20 recent job photos, then set a simple monthly photo cadence
- Reply to every existing review — start with the negatives
- Publish one Google Post a week (an offer, a tip, or a finished job)
- Answer the open questions and seed five owner FAQs

How you compare locally The strongest plumbers in your service area average roughly 120+ reviews at about 4.7, post to their profile weekly, and keep 40+ recent photos live. Closing even half of that gap would move Bluebonnet from the edges of the Map Pack toward the top three for your core searches.

■ WEBSITE AUDIT

Your website is where a Google visitor decides whether to call. It doesn't need to be flashy — it needs to load fast, make calling effortless, and prove you're the right plumber for the job. Here's how yours holds up, area by area.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Mobile experience	C ⁻	 52	Usable but dated; the layout isn't built for one-thumb use and the header number isn't tappable.
Page speed	D ⁺	 47	Largest content paints around 4.6s on a phone — well past the ~2.5s point where visitors start leaving.
Content depth	D	 44	No dedicated service or city pages, so there's little for Google to match to local searches.
Conversion elements	C	 58	A contact form exists but sits low on the page; no click-to-call, no online booking, no trust badges near the CTA.
Technical & schema	D ⁺	 48	No LocalBusiness or Service schema, so Google can't confidently surface your hours, ratings, and service area.

Detailed findings

Speed is the leak you can't see

Every second of load time past about 2.5s measurably increases the share of visitors who leave before the page even appears. At ~4.6s on mobile, Bluebonnet is losing a meaningful slice of hard-won Google and ad traffic before they ever see the phone number. Compressing images and trimming unused code typically cuts this figure in half and pays for itself in recovered calls.

Make the call the easiest thing on the page

A plumbing visitor is usually ready to act — often mid-emergency. If the phone number isn't a large, tappable 'Call Now' button at the top of every page, you're adding friction at the exact moment it costs the most. Pairing tap-to-call with a short 'request a callback' form captures both the ready-to-call customers and the researchers who aren't quite there yet.

Thin content is capping your rankings

Google ranks pages, not businesses. With a single Services page and no city pages, there's very little for Google to match against searches like 'water heater repair Frisco' or 'drain cleaning McKinney.' Dedicated, genuinely useful pages for each core service and city are what move you up the local results — done properly, with real content, not keyword-stuffed doorway pages.

Quick wins for your website

- Compress images and defer unused scripts to get mobile load under 2.5s
- Add a sticky tap-to-call button on every page
- Write unique title tags and meta descriptions for every page
- Add LocalBusiness + Service schema markup
- Publish dedicated service and city pages

■ PRIORITY FIXES — HIGHEST IMPACT FIRST

Ordered by impact. We start at the top — the fastest ways to turn your existing traffic into more booked calls.

- 1 Speed up the mobile site — compress images and clean up the code so pages load in under 2.5s. This is the single biggest thing costing you calls from phone visitors right now.
- 2 Add a tap-to-call button — put a clear, tappable 'Call Now' button at the top of every page so a ready-to-book visitor reaches you in one tap instead of hunting for the number.
- 3 Complete your Google Business Profile — fill in every service and secondary category, add 15–20 fresh photos, and start posting weekly — the fastest way to show up in more 'near me' searches for free.
- 4 Build out service & city pages — add unique, genuinely useful pages for drain cleaning, water heaters, and each city you serve so you finally rank for the searches you're missing today.
- 5 Launch a simple review engine — automatically text happy customers a review link and reply to every review — the fastest path from 3.9 toward 4.7 + and more Map-Pack trust.
- 6 Add call tracking & online booking — so you can see which fixes are actually producing calls, and let after-hours visitors book themselves instead of bouncing.

■ YOUR FIRST 30 DAYS

In the first 30 days we focus on the fastest-moving wins — completing the Google profile, adding tap-to-call, and fixing site speed — which typically lift call volume before anything else is even finished. From there we build the service and city pages and the review engine that compound month over month. None of it requires ad spend to start working.
