■ PREPARED FOR

Highland Village Family Dentistry

Website Audit & Growth Plan · Dental practice

A free, no-obligation look at how Highland Village Family Dentistry shows up online today, and what we would do about it.

■ THE SHORT VERSION

You are not hard to find. A 5.0 from 536 reviews, first in the map results and second on the plain results for the search that matters most. The gap is one step further in. Search for dental implants or Invisalign in Highland Village and Google returns your Facebook page instead of your website, because your website has no page about either one.

■ WHAT IS ALREADY WORKING

- A 5.0 rating from 536 Google reviews. That is a large number of reviews for a single practice and a perfect average across all of them. Nothing in this report is worth more than that, and no agency can build it for you.
- You hold the top spot in the map results for dentistry in Highland Village and second place on the plain results underneath. Most of this report is about what happens after somebody finds you, because being found is already handled.
- The site itself is built soundly. It lays out properly on a phone, the phone number is tappable, there is exactly one main headline, and the code publishes your address and opening hours for search engines to read.

DIMENSION	GRADE	ASSESSMENT
Google Business Profile  95	A	A 5.0 from 536 reviews, first in the map results, website linked. This is as strong as this section gets.
Website quality  63	D	Well built and nearly empty. The frame is right and there is almost nothing inside it for Google or a patient to read.
Local search visibility  58	F	First on the map and second on the main search, and then absent on the treatment searches where your own Facebook page ranks instead.
Turning visitors into customers  60	D-	The phone number is tappable and the hours are published. There is no map, no directions link, and very little on the page to read before deciding.
OVERALL  69	D+

Each row is the straight average of the graded checks in the sections covering it, and the overall is the average of the four rows. Every check and its number is printed in sections 03 through 06. Letters follow the ordinary school band, so 93 and above is an A, the eighties are Bs, the seventies Cs, the sixties Ds, and anything under 60 is an F. We did not soften it.

■ WHAT WE WOULD FIX, IN ORDER

1	Write a page for each treatment you want patients to find	4	Make it easy to work out where you are and why you
2	Put something on the page for a patient to read	5	Keep the reviews coming, and answer them
3	Give Highland Village and Flower Mound a page each	6	Reach the patients you already have

01 is the free do-it-yourself list, 03 and 04 grade each piece, 05 works through the 6 fixes, 06 is who we are and what we charge.

01 Fixes You Can Make Yourself, Free

■ SIX THINGS YOU CAN FIX YOURSELF, WITHOUT PAYING ANYBODY

This audit is yours to use however you want, with us or without us. Your site runs on a builder you already have the login for, which means most of what follows is typing rather than developing. We put it first on purpose. Everything from here down is the diagnosis. This page is the part you can act on before you finish reading.

01 Add a page for each treatment you want patients to find

1 This is the single most valuable free thing on the list and it is why your Facebook page is beating your website. Google could not send anybody to a page about implants or Invisalign on your site, because there is not one. Your services page names ten treatments together. A page that is only about implants, written in your own words, is a page Google can hand to somebody searching for implants.

02 Put more words on the homepage

2 There is very little written text on it. A builder homepage leans on layout, and layout is not something a search engine can read or a nervous patient can be reassured by. Two or three honest paragraphs about how the practice works, who you are and what a first visit is like will do more than any redesign.

03 Write a page about the cities you serve

3 Your site names Highland Village and Flower Mound and has no page about either. A short page for each, describing where you are and who you see there, is free in your builder and is the thing competitors use to take searches you should be winning outright.

04 Quote your reviews on your own site

4 You have 536 of them at a 5.0 average and your website borrows none of that. Copying a handful onto the homepage with the patient's first name costs nothing and is more persuasive than anything a copywriter would write for you.

05 Add the missing alt text

5 There are 3 images on the homepage and 1 of them carries no alt text, the short written description that tells a search engine what a picture shows. This is a two-minute fix. It is on the list because it is free and finished today, not because it is going to change your year.

06 Make sure your Facebook page sends people to your website

6 On two of the searches we ran, your Facebook page is what Google returned. That is not a disaster while it is happening, it is a click you still get. But Facebook decides what that visitor sees and you do not. Until the treatment pages exist, make sure the Facebook page has your phone number and a link straight to the site.

■ WHERE YOU STAND TODAY

This practice does not have a visibility problem, and we want to say that before anything else, because most of what follows is critical and it would be easy to read it as a claim that Google is ignoring you. It is not. A 5.0 from 536 reviews is a genuinely large reputation, you hold the first map result for dentistry in Highland Village, and hvfamilydentistry.com is the second plain result behind Highland Village Dental. The site is also built sensibly. It lays out for a phone, the number is tappable, there is one main headline rather than a dozen, and the code publishes your address and hours. What is missing is the site itself. The homepage carries very little writing, there is no page about any of the ten treatments you list, and no page about Highland Village or Flower Mound. The consequence shows up on exactly the searches you would most want: for dental implants and for Invisalign in Highland Village, Google returned your Facebook page and not your website. That is Google choosing the page that has something to say. The practice has been privately owned since 2013 and the reputation shows it. The website has not been asked to carry any of it.

03 Google Business Profile Audit

This is the strongest section in the report and there is not much for us to do here. Your Google Business Profile is doing its job and doing it well. The number beside each check is what it contributes to the 95 on page two.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Rating	A	 98	5.0 on the live profile. There is no higher grade available, and your patients gave it to you rather than us.
Review volume	A	 97	536 reviews on one profile. That is a large number for a single practice, and it is the reason the profile carries the business.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Map position	A	 96	First in the map results for dentistry in Highland Village. That is the most valuable position in local search and you already hold it.
Website link	B+	 89	The profile links through to hvfamilydentistry.com, so the attention Google sends has somewhere to land. What is waiting there is sections 04 through 06.

Detailed findings

What we could not see, and are not going to guess at

We did not sign in to your account, so the description, the services and products section, and whether the profile carries current photos and posts were not visible to us. Those are the parts of a profile most practices leave half filled in, and we are not going to tell you yours are empty when we have not looked. Sign in and read each section. If they are already full, ignore this and we will have wasted a line of your time rather than a page of your money.

The profile is not the problem, which is why the rest of this report is worth reading

When a practice ranks badly the fix is usually obvious and slow. Yours is the opposite. Google already trusts you enough to put you first on the map and second on the main search. Everything in sections 04 through 06 is about the fact that when Google goes looking for a page of yours about a specific treatment, it cannot find one, and hands the result to whoever wrote one. In your case it has twice handed it to your own Facebook page, which is a strange kind of luck: you are competing with yourself and losing to the version you control least.

How you compare locally Highland Village Dental holds the first plain result for dentistry in Highland Village and you hold the second. On the map you are first and they are not. That is a close and healthy position, and it is not the part of the market we would spend your money on. The searches worth your attention are the treatment ones. For dental implants and for Invisalign in Highland Village your own website did not appear at all, and on both of them your Facebook page did. Whoever ranked above you there did so with a page written about the treatment. That is the entire mechanism, and it is one you can copy.

04 Website & SEO Audit

■ TECHNICAL & FOUNDATIONS

This is the plumbing a search engine needs before it can understand the site. Most of it here is right, which is genuinely uncommon and worth saying plainly. These six checks and the five in the next block are what average out to the 63 on page two.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Page title	B ⁺	 88	64 characters, naming the practice and what it does. This reads like somebody wrote it rather than letting the builder fill it in.
Meta description	B	 85	128 characters. That is the grey line of text under your link in search results, and yours describes the practice in a full sentence instead of trailing off.
Heading structure	A ⁻	 90	Exactly 1 main headline on the homepage. That is what it should be, and it is the single most commonly broken thing we check.
Mobile layout	A	 95	The page is set to lay out at the width of whatever device opens it, and the stylesheet carries a large number of rules for adapting to smaller screens. On a phone this site behaves.
Structured data (schema)	D	 65	Schema is hidden code that spells out your details for search engines. Yours is valid and publishes your postal address and opening hours, which is more than most sites have. It declares you as a generic local business rather than a dental practice, so Google is told you exist and not what you are.
Canonical tag	F	 40	There is no canonical tag. That is the line of code that tells Google which address for a page is the real one. Without it, a builder that serves the same page at more than one address leaves those versions competing with each other.

Detailed findings

The frame is right, which is the good news and also the whole problem

We audit a lot of sites that get this section wrong, and yours mostly gets it right. It lays out for a phone. It has one headline. It publishes an address and opening hours in code. Somebody set this up with a degree of care. The trouble is that a well-built empty room is still an empty room. Everything technical here is doing its job correctly, and what it is correctly delivering to Google is a page with almost nothing on it. The two fixable items in this block, the schema type and the missing canonical, are both small. They are not what is holding you back, and we would rather tell you that than pad the list.

Telling Google you are a business is not the same as telling it you are a dentist

Your schema declares a generic local business. There is a specific type for a dental practice, and using it is how a search engine connects your page to the idea of dentistry rather than just to a street address. It is a one-word change in the code. We mention it because it is the kind of detail that quietly separates a site Google understands from one it merely stores, and because on a site with this little text, the code is doing more of the explaining than usual.

One measurement we will describe exactly rather than dress up

On your about page the builder emits the heading naming the practice as privately owned since 2013 six times in the underlying code. On your team page it emits Dr. Jackson Fuller's name seven times. That is what a search engine reads. We did not open the pages on a screen to check whether the layout hides the duplicates, so we are not going to claim a visitor sees anything odd. What we can say is that repeated headings in the code muddy what the page is about, and that whoever maintains the builder should look at those two pages.

■ ON-PAGE & CONTENT

This is the section that explains the rest of the report. Google ranks pages, and this site is a handful of pages with very little written on them. That is not a technical failure. It is unbuilt ground.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Content depth	F	 22	There is very little written text on the homepage. A patient deciding on a dentist, and a search engine deciding what to rank, are both reading the same almost-empty page.
Location content	F	 10	Your site names Highland Village and Flower Mound and has no page about either one.
Pages for individual treatments	F	 35	There is a services page listing ten treatments. There is no page about any single one of them, which is what the treatment searches are looking for.
Image alt text	C+	 78	3 images on the homepage, 1 of them with no alt text. The coverage is fine. The number of images on a dental homepage is the more interesting figure.
Freshness	B	 85	The Internet Archive records the homepage content as last changing on 16 October 2025. The site is maintained, not abandoned.

Detailed findings

Ten treatments, one page, and a Facebook page eating your search results

Your services page names cosmetic dentistry, same-day crowns, emergencies, cleaning and prevention, implants, oral sedation, orthodontics, implant dentures, whitening and children's dentistry. Every one of those is also a phrase somebody in Highland Village types into Google, usually with the city attached and usually at the moment they are ready to book. A single page trying to be about ten things cannot win any of them, because Google will always prefer a page that is about one. This is why, on two of the three searches we ran, the result Google chose to show for your practice was your Facebook page. It was not choosing Facebook over you. It was choosing the only page it could find with something to say.

A thin page costs you twice

It costs you with Google, which has almost nothing to read and therefore almost nothing to rank. It also costs you with the patient, and that half gets less attention than it should. Somebody choosing a dentist is doing something they are mildly anxious about. They want to read how you handle nervous patients, what a first visit is, whether you see children, what happens if something breaks on a Saturday. A page that answers those questions is the one that gets the call, and it is worth more than the search position that delivered them. You have been privately owned since 2013 and hold a 5.0 from 536 reviews. There is a great deal to say here. Almost none of it is on the site.

■ LOCAL SEO & RANKINGS

Every search below was run by hand on 4 August 2026. Read the table before the grades, because the grades on this page are lower than your position on the main search would suggest and the table is what explains why. These five checks average out to the 58 on page two.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Ranking on the main search	B ⁻	 82	Second on the plain results for dentistry in Highland Village, behind Highland Village Dental. That is a strong position and we are not going to pretend otherwise.
Map position	A	 96	First in the map results. The most valuable slot in local search, already held.
Rankings on treatment searches	F	 20	Absent on both treatment searches we ran. Your Facebook page ranked on each of them and hvfamilydentistry.com did not.
Location pages	F	 10	None, for either of the two cities your own site names.
Name and address consistency	B ⁻	 82	The practice name and the Village Parkway address agree between your site and your Google profile. Mismatches here are one of the commonest reasons a listing underperforms, and yours does not have that problem.

Checked by hand, 4 August 2026

SEARCH	HVFAMILYDENTISTRY.COM	WHAT GOOGLE RETURNED INSTEAD
dentist highland village tx	Position 2	Highland Village Dental took the first result. You also hold the first map slot.
dental implants highland village tx	Absent	Your own Facebook page

SEARCH	HV FAMILY DENTISTRY.COM	WHAT GOOGLE RETURNED INSTEAD
invisalign highland village tx	Absent	Your own Facebook page

Detailed findings

The pattern in that table is the whole audit

Search for the thing you are, and you are near the top. Search for the things you do, and your website is not there. Those are not two problems. They are one problem seen twice. Google has decided who you are, which is what the reviews and the profile bought you, and it has no idea what you treat, because no page on the site is about a treatment. The reason this matters more than the second-place finish is intent. Somebody typing dentist highland village tx is browsing. Somebody typing dental implants highland village tx has decided to spend serious money and is choosing where. That is the search you are absent from.

Losing to yourself is a better problem than losing to a competitor

On both treatment searches, the page Google chose was yours, just not the one you control. A Facebook page cannot be optimized, cannot be laid out how you want, and puts a competitor's advert beside your name. It is also proof of something useful: Google is willing to rank your practice for those terms. It simply has nothing better of yours to rank. That is a far cheaper problem to fix than being beaten by a rival with ten years of work behind them, because the ground is empty rather than occupied.

■ TURNING VISITORS INTO CUSTOMERS

Being found only counts if the visitor can then do something, whether that is call, work out where you are, or decide you are the right practice. These four checks average out to the 60 on page two.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Click-to-call	A ⁻	 90	The homepage carries 1 tappable phone number. On a phone it is a button rather than something to copy out by hand, which is how it should be and often is not.
Address and hours available to a search engine	B ⁺	 88	Your code publishes a postal address and an opening-hours block, so Google can read both without a person having to hunt the page for them.
Directions and map	F	 32	There is no embedded map and no directions link anywhere on the homepage. A patient who wants to know whether you are a convenient drive has to leave the site to find out.
Enough on the page to decide	F	 30	There is very little to read. Somebody comparing two practices with equal ratings will choose on what they learn, and there is not much here to learn.

Detailed findings

The two things missing here are the two things a nervous patient wants

Where are you, and what are you like. Neither is answered on the page. The address is in the code, which serves Google well and a human being not at all, and there is no map to glance at. The writing that would tell somebody what kind of practice this is has not been written. These are not technical faults, which is why they do not appear in section 04. They are the difference between a visitor who calls and a visitor who goes back to the results and taps the practice below you.

You already do the hard half of this

The number is tappable and the hours are published properly. Those are the two conversion basics most sites we audit get wrong, and yours are right. That is worth saying because it changes what the work is. Nobody needs to rebuild the mechanics of this site. Somebody needs to put something on it.

05 Your Growth Plan

Most of the proposals we write open by explaining why a practice cannot be found. Yours cannot open that way. You are first on the map for dentistry in Highland Village and second on the plain results underneath, with a 5.0 from 536 reviews behind you, and the website is built properly. What is missing is the site itself. There is no page about implants, no page about Invisalign, no page about Highland Village or Flower Mound, and very little writing anywhere. On both treatment searches we ran, Google returned your Facebook page instead of your website, because your website has nothing to say about either treatment. Everything below comes straight out of the audit you just read, in the order we would do it. Three of the six are free in full and already sitting on your section 01 list. We say so where that applies.

Six fixes, in the order we would do them. Each one is a finding from your audit, what it costs you while it sits there, and what we would do about it.

1 Ten treatments listed on one page, and no page about any single one of them

This is the finding the rest of the audit hangs off. Cosmetic work, same-day crowns, emergencies, cleaning, implants, sedation, orthodontics, implant dentures, whitening and children's dentistry are all named on your services page, and every one of them is also a phrase somebody types with the city attached. Google ranks pages, not practices, so it will always prefer a page written about implants over a page that mentions implants in a list. That is why your own Facebook page ranked on both treatment searches and hvfamilydentistry.com did not. You are not being beaten by a rival with a decade of work behind them. The ground is simply empty.

OUR FIX A real page for each treatment worth ranking for, written the way you would explain it in the chair, linked properly and pointed at from your Google profile. This is the largest single piece of work in the plan. It is also item one on your free list, because your site runs on a builder you have the login for, and a determined person with an afternoon can start it without us.

THE RESULT When somebody in Highland Village searches for the thing they have decided to spend money on, there is a page of yours for Google to hand them.

2 Very little written text on the homepage

It costs you twice. Google has almost nothing to read and therefore almost nothing to rank. The patient has almost nothing to read either, and choosing a dentist is a decision people are mildly anxious about. They want to know how you handle a nervous patient, what the first visit is, whether you see children, what happens if something breaks on a Saturday. Two practices with the same rating get chosen on what a person learns, and there is not much here to learn. You have been privately owned since 2013 and hold a 5.0 across 536 reviews. There is a great deal to say. Almost none of it is on the site.

OUR FIX Writing, first, and design second. This is also on your free list. Honest paragraphs about how the practice actually works will beat any redesign, and if you write them yourself you keep the money. If we build the site, we interview you and write them for you.

THE RESULT The page answers the questions a patient was going to ask on the phone, before they decide whether to make the call.

3 Your site names two cities and has no page about either

A location page is not a trick. It is where you say where you are, who you see there and how to get to you, which is exactly the question a search engine is trying to answer for somebody nearby. You hold the first map slot already, so Google has decided you belong to Highland Village. The plain results are where a page would let you take searches you should be winning outright, and right now there is nothing of yours competing for them.

OUR FIX A page for Highland Village and a page for Flower Mound, each written rather than templated. This is item three on your free list and is straightforward typing in your builder.

THE RESULT The two cities you already serve have a page apiece arguing your case in the results.

4 No map, no directions link, and none of your reviews quoted on your own site

Your address is published in the code, which serves Google well and a human being not at all. There is no map to glance at and no directions link, so a patient wondering whether you are a convenient drive has to leave the site to find out, and some of them do not come back. At the same time the single most persuasive thing you own, 536 reviews at a 5.0 average, appears nowhere on your website. It sits on Google doing nothing for the page.

OUR FIX A map and a directions link on the page, and a handful of your reviews quoted with the patient's first name. Quoting the reviews is free and it is item four on your section 01 list. Do that part today whether or not you ever hire us.

THE RESULT A visitor can see where you are and read why other people stayed, without leaving the page.

5 536 reviews at 5.0, and nothing systematic keeping that going

Nothing yet, which is the point. A review pace is only visible in hindsight, and practices that lose it lose it quietly, because asking is the first thing that falls off a busy front desk. A 5.0 across 536 reviews says the asking works whenever it happens. It does not say it happens every time.

OUR FIX A request that goes out automatically after the appointment instead of depending on somebody remembering, and replies written and posted on the ones that come in.

THE RESULT The number that already carries this practice keeps climbing without anybody having to remember to ask.

6 536 reviews from patients who liked you enough to write about it, and no visible way to reach any of them again

We want to flag this one clearly: it is an inference, not a finding. We cannot see your patient records from outside and we are not going to pretend otherwise. What we can see is a practice with a 5.0 from 536 reviews and no sign on the public side of a list, a newsletter or a recall campaign. If that is wrong, tell us at the sit-down and we will take it off the plan.

OUR FIX Every patient in one place, recall and reactivation campaigns that go out on a schedule, and lead follow-up that happens in minutes rather than whenever somebody reaches the inbox.

THE RESULT The people who already trust you hear from you again without you having to think about it.

06 Who We Are & What It Costs

■ WHO IS SENDING YOU THIS

Top Shelf Solutions builds and runs the online side of small businesses in North Texas. Websites and local SEO are where most people meet us, but the work usually ends up broader than that, because the website is rarely the only gap. We do all of the following, and a practice your size normally uses four or five of them rather than all ten. Two of the businesses running on this are Your Neighborhood GDR and TAP Services. Both of those are ours, which is the reason we can show you the whole thing working instead of handing you a testimonial. If you want to talk to either of them, ask at the sit-down and we will put you in touch.

■ WHY THIS ONE, FOR HIGHLAND VILLAGE FAMILY DENTISTRY SPECIFICALLY

The new website	Here is the part most agencies would not tell you: there is nothing wrong with how your site is built. It lays out for a phone, the number is tappable, there is exactly one main headline, and the code publishes your address and hours. Whoever set it up did it with care, and we would keep those decisions rather than throw them out. What has to change is that the rooms are empty. The homepage carries very little writing and the treatment pages do not exist. Two small technical items come with the rebuild at no extra thought: the schema says generic local business rather than dental practice, and there is no canonical tag. Work starts the day you sign and the site is live within a week of us getting photos and access. One thing to say plainly rather than let you find later: the plan covers a five-page site, and your growth plan runs past that, because a home page, a contact page, two city pages and a page for each treatment you want to rank for adds up quickly. We would sort that out with you at the sit-down.
Your Google profile	The profile is carrying this practice and it is the strongest thing you own. A 5.0 from 536 reviews, the first map slot, and the site linked. That is not something we improve so much as protect and finish. Section 01 shows you how to check the parts we could not see from outside, and most of that is free.
Advanced SEO	You are second on the main search and absent on both treatment searches, where your own Facebook page ranked instead. That split is the whole job. Google already trusts the practice, which is the expensive half and you have it. The remaining work is mostly writing the pages that do not exist yet and getting Google to trust them too.
AI Receptionist	We could not test this from outside, so treat it as a question rather than a finding. A practice cannot answer the phone with a patient in the chair, and calls after five o'clock go somewhere. The receptionist is software, not a person, and it answers every time, books into your calendar, and texts back anything it cannot handle so a real answer follows in the morning.
Reviews, both ways	A 5.0 across 536 reviews says the asking already works whenever it happens. What it does not say is that it happens every time, because it never does at a busy front desk. The system asks for you, and replies to what comes in, which is the half almost nobody does.
CRM and reactivation	This one is an inference, not a finding, and we would rather label it than dress it up. 536 reviews came from patients who cared enough to write one. If you already keep a list and run recall properly, say so and we will take this off the plan and off the price conversation.

This is the plan most businesses start on, and it is the one we would put you on, because all six of the fixes in your growth plan live inside it. There is a smaller plan below it at $499. It builds you the same website at no charge, so the site is not the reason to skip it. What it leaves out is everything that keeps working after the site goes live: SEO worked every month, review responses written and posted for you, the patient database and the recall campaigns that reach people you currently have no way to reach, a receptionist covering the hours a practice does not, and lead follow-up in under five minutes. There is a larger plan above it at $1,599. What it mainly adds is paid advertising, and we would rather you did not buy that yet. You already hold the first map slot and second place on the main search without paying for either, and paid traffic would land on the same thin page the free traffic lands on. Write the pages first. If you still want ads after that, step up then and we will have made the case with your own numbers instead of a promise. One more thing owners ask, so we will answer it before you have to. The website is built in the first week, not the ninth month, as soon as we have photos and access from you. What the monthly pays for after that is the part that never gets done twice: the phone answered after hours, reviews asked for and answered, past patients contacted again. The audit in your hands and the sample site we built you are what we do before anybody pays us anything. If the sit-down turns up something different, we will tell you that instead.

This is only the part we can see from the outside.

Everything in this document came from what is publicly visible: your listing, your site, your rankings. The things we cannot audit from a laptop are usually where the bigger wins are. Calls that come in while a chair is occupied. Patients who meant to book the follow-up and did not. Five hundred and thirty-six reviews from people whose phone numbers we have no way of knowing you have. Give us 20 minutes, at the practice or on the phone, and we will go through those with you and tell you which ones are worth doing and which are not. The audit is free and yours to use however you want, with us or without us.

Let's set up your sit-down.
